Traver and Murray Stop Drawing for Bermuda Voyage

Committee for President's Ball Must Refund Cash to Purchasers of Books and Tickets

Called Lottery

County Judge and District Attorney Meet With Committee and Explain Law

The trip to Bermuda drawing which was being conducted by the committee for the celebration of the President's birthday has been cancelled and persons who have already contributed toward the purchase of tickets may receive their money back by presenting stubs to members of the committee or to those from whom tickets were purchased.

Purchasers of books will be refunded their money by presenting the books to the treasurer of the committee, Joseph Campbell.

The tickets were sold in connection with the President's Birthday Balls which are to be held tonight and Saturday evening for the benefit of infantile paralysis victims. The award was to have been two round trips to Bermuda and the winner of the trip was to have been determined and announced at the birthday parties. This feature of the plan was carried out last year.

Members of the committee in charge of the drawings were advised yesterday at a meeting held with County Judge Frederick G. Traver and District Attorney Cleon B. Murray that the proposition was a "lottery" and could not be continued. A large number of tickets had already been disposed of and the purchasers will be refunded their money. Letters were sent out immediately to all holders of books notifying them of the action taken and advising them the manner in which to proceed to recover money donated for the tickets.

A law prohibits a "drawing" or awarding of a prize by lot, terminating such an award a violation of the lottery law. In any instance where a complaint is made of the conduct of a lottery it becomes the duty of the law enforcement officials to prohibit the continuance of such a drawing. Where such drawing comes to the attention of the prosecuting officials, it also becomes their duty to stop the lottery.

The attention of District Attorney Murray was first called to the lottery when he received a book of tickets through the mail to sell. After receiving the book he took steps to have the Bermuda contest called off. County Judge Traver and Sheriff Molyneux also received books.

Three of the balls will be held this evening, one at Clinton Ford in the town of Rosendale, one at Irvington Inn in Woodstock and one at Huling's Barn, Kingston. Saturday night the fourth ball will take place at Shanley's hotel at Napanoch.

Albany Mayor Seeks Measure to Bring Out Scenic Advantages of New York Roads

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 27 (AP)—Legislative action to publicize the "scenic beauty and historic background" of New York highways and bring World Fair visitors through upstate areas was proposed today.

Albany's Mayor John Boyd Thacher, in a letter to Governor Lehman, said two northern routes recommended by the New York Automobile Club and other organizations, as the best ways to the fair, converge at Erie, Pa., and would carry visitors through Pennsylvania to New York City.

"To counteract this publicity," the mayor said, "it is my belief that the state of New York through the Legislature, should take some action calling attention to the scenic beauty and the historic background of the highways from Buffalo to New York, via the Mohawk and the Hudson valleys."

Senate Will Vote Today on Whether To Restore Fund

Roll Call Vote Late This Afternoon Will Decide Status of 150 Million Cut on F.D.R.'s Relief Bill

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, predicted today the Senate would grant President Roosevelt's request for $875,000,000 for relief, by from three to six votes.

Barkley's prediction was made as the Senate prepared to vote at 3 p. m. (E. S. T.) on an amendment to increase a proposed $725,000,000 relief appropriation to the $875,000,000 figure.

Ox-Drawn Funeral Carts File Slowly Through Chillan

Weary Way for Survivors Is Toward Communal Graves to Bury Relatives; Death and Disease Rampant

Chillan, Chile (via Buenos Aires) Jan. 27 (AP)—An endless file of ox-drawn funeral carts slowly made its way through the ruined streets of historic Chillan today.

In somber despair men and women who had lived through the horror of earthquake limped and labored alongside the creaking carts to bury sons and daughters, mothers, fathers, life-long friends.

The weary way led to communal graves—some of them ditches the living had been able to dig, some of them deep fissures with which the violent earth convulsions scarred the countryside Tuesday night.

The military and those who could work dug into the shambles for more dead—so many that they cannot be counted. The living that remain of the city of 40,000 are being counted instead.

Mayor Siliodoro Tapia believed 10,000 in this city perished. Hundreds and probably thousands more were dead in nearby cities and villages.

Some of the dead were taken from the ruins of two theatres which cascaded into formless heaps of brick and masonry shortly before performances would have ended Tuesday night.

The low moaning of injured pleading for water mingled with the calls of mothers for lost children. Under the ruins whole families are known to be buried.

At Concepcion there were perhaps 2,000 dead and many injured. Elsewhere reports were slow, incomplete—but always they were of dead, of wounded, of ruins and of need for help.

At Santiago it was announced that was concentrated upon the fight to fend off disease in the stricken earthquake areas today.

Insurgents Push Past Barcelona in Continued Drive

Fallen City of Barcelona Is Scene of Hundreds of Demonstrations; Franco Eager to Clean Up Province

Brilliant Parades

Red and Gold Insurgent Banners Fly Above Triumph Celebrants

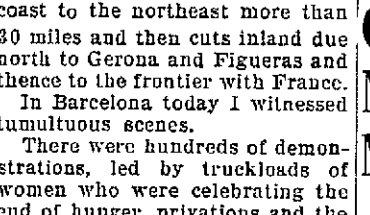

By LARRY ALLEN
Barcelona, Jan. 27 (AP)—The conquering Spanish insurgents, flushed with their success in capturing Barcelona, pushed up the coast today and seized the village of Badalona in the offensive designed to wipe out government forces from Catalonia.

Badalona, approximately six miles by road northeast of the fallen provisional capital, lies on a main highway which follows the coast to the northeast more than 30 miles and then cuts inland due north to Gerona and Figueras and thence to the frontier with France.

In Barcelona today I witnessed tumultuous scenes.

There were hundreds of demonstrations, led by truckloads of women who were celebrating the end of hunger, privations and the bombing of war.

Insurgent Officers Watch Fall of Barcelona

Insurgent General Don Jose Solchaga Y Zala (third from left) and other staff officers watch the forces of General Francisco Franco pound the city of Barcelona into submission, meeting but slight resistance from the Loyalist forces. The city, Loyalist capital and greatest industrial center, fell to Franco's troops a short time later. This picture was radioed to New York from London.

Growers Consider McIntosh Apples at Morning's Session

Jay Gelder, Chazy, Presides at Meeting; R. C. Collison, Gerow Schoonmaker and Others Give Talks

The apparently reigning favorite of the day in the apple world, the McIntosh, held the limelight at the session of the State Horticultural Society this morning. As a matter of fact the McIntosh has been pretty much in evidence all through the meeting here and has been the subject of frequent reference on the part of the different speakers.

Jay Gelder of Chazy, whose McIntosh orchard is outstanding, was chairman of the meeting this morning and introduced as the first speaker R. C. Collison of the Geneva Experiment Station who discussed the practice of mulching, a practice which has increased in New York state. Gerow Schoonmaker of Walkkill and E. V. Vedder, Jr., of Schoharie added to the discussion, giving their experiences with mulching and telling the procedure they followed.

At 11 o'clock P. A. Harper of Cornell University addressed the growers on one of the most pertinent topics of the day and one of supreme importance, perhaps, in a forward look, "Is the McIntosh Overplanted?" Growers who contributed their views on the subject were Arthur W. Kurtz of New Paltz and Marion Albright of Athens.

Mr. Harper said that the question should be viewed from three aspects—market demand for the McIntosh, the variety of the variety in production and how many a grower can handle advantageously. He restricted his remarks largely to the marketing demand for McIntosh.

The most recent information had relative to prices, said the speaker, referring to Hudson valley growers, was for 1937. This showed that the Mac sold for a higher price than any other important variety. Delicious and Northern brought nearly as much, but other varieties were far below, based on comparative sales. Similar results had been shown in studies in the Hudson valley in 1933, 34 and 35.

Continuing, Mr. Harper said in part: Present prices are not the only

Capitalistic System Not A Failure, Says J. Terry

"Capitalistic System Not A Failure."

Editor, Kingston Daily Freeman.
Dear Sir:
Without a hall or brass band the writer would appreciate first page space to answer the now famous Mr. Carey who spoke at Temple Emanuel before the Men's Club recently and reported as first page news in Tuesday's issue. His idea apparently was to discredit the capitalistic system of economy and profit in favor of the Russian or Communist.

To begin with it can be said that the capitalistic or profit system has been in force in this country for about 150 years, and who can say we're not better off than any other country in the world, with all our mistakes and mismanagement. Whoever will choose another should have free transportation.

Let us assume as a proper premise that most of our population is inexperienced in world affairs. Also by the same token that the majority of our voters are relatively inexperienced.

Isn't that proof that the majority, the inexperienced are being to discredit or prove, that a system which has worked so satisfactorily for 150 years has made the United States the most successful and desirable country in which to live.

Why are foreigners of all countries trying to crash the gates trying to get in, and why such quota regulations and strict regulations against smuggling? Do these foreigners think we are prosperous or a failure and want to save us from ourselves?

Dr. McNeill Gets Napanoch Position

Matteawan Assistant Superintendent Named to Succeed Captain Hoffman

Dr. John F. McNeill, assistant superintendent of the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, has been named by Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney, as superintendent of the institution for Male Detention Delinquents at Napanoch. Dr. McNeill succeeds the late Captain John L. Hoffman who was superintendent of the Napanoch institution for several years succeeding Dr. W. N. Thayer.

The appointment of Dr. McNeill was made from the civil service list.

Dr. McNeill is a graduate of the University of Vermont and entered state service as an interne at William State Hospital in 1913. In 1915 he was transferred to Central Islip State Hospital, where he became senior assistant physician. In 1926 he was appointed first assistant physician at Matteawan. In 1917 Dr. McNeill enlisted in the medical corps and served two years in the World War. He was commissioned a first lieutenant.

Thomas E. Bergan, former city manager of Schoharie, was also named Thursday by Commissioner Mulrooney as first assistant commissioner in charge of industries in the State Correction Department. He is also a former city manager of Auburn and succeeds the late George R. Wadsworth of New York. Bergan has been area WPA director with offices at Utica.

President Requests Millions for Planes

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt asked Congress today for an immediate appropriation of $50,000,000 to be spent largely for new airplanes in the administration's national defense program.

He submitted the request in a letter to Speaker Bankhead which asked that the money be made available for expenditure during the remainder of the current fiscal year and through the year starting July 1.

Mr. Roosevelt said the money would provide, in part, for the defense program he recommended to Congress on January 12. At that time he suggested a $300,000,000 army airplane procurement program and said approximately $50,000,000 should be made available immediately. Today's request for the air corps was $46,442,820. The administration said that would obtain 565 new combat airplanes.

In addition, Mr. Roosevelt requested $1,490,071 for radio equipment for the signal corps and $2,067,100 for armament for the 565 airplanes.

Ernest Miller, 44, Dies at Hospital

Ernest Miller, 44, of New Paltz, a truck driver, died at the Kingston Hospital this afternoon from the results of a railroad accident this morning on the private crossing at the former Jesse Deyo farm in Springtown.

Miller's right side was crushed from the impact when his truck and the locomotive of a Walkkill Valley train collided. Miller, removing a load of gravel from a back nearby, evidently did not hear the train approaching as he drove his vehicle over the track.

After the collision, members of the train crew, notified Miller's fellow workers at the gravel bank and they removed him to New Paltz, but were not able to get him to a physician until 11:40. The accident happened at 11:45.

Dr. Reid pronounced Miller in a serious condition and ordered him removed to the Kingston Hospital, where he and Dr. Joseph Jacobson attended him. A detailed report of his injuries was not available.

There was no autopsy ordered by District Attorney Murray after he had read the report made of the accident by Deputy Sheriff Arthur Brown, the investigating officer.

As none of the workers in the gravel bank was near enough to witness the accident, an investigation will be carried further as soon as the train crew can be interviewed.

Extra Boats Planned

The Hudson River Day Line is making plans for the New York World's Fair visitors to go down to the Fair in ships. The Day Line has announced that it has scheduled six day line boats to ply the river next season in anticipation of greatly increased traffic. There will be boats run on the one-day excursion trips to Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, West Point, Bear Mountain and Indian Point for World Fair visitors and there will also be a four-hour sightseeing cruise around New York harbor and to the World's Fair. Samuel Rosoff, who controls the night line on the Hudson, is also making preparations for placing all available boats in service early in the season.

Second Ulsterwide Action Would Bid For Fair's Visitors

Albert Kurdt, Farm Bureau Manager, Says Meeting Will Be Held by Directors Within Next 10 Days

Hotelmen Meet

Hotelmen and Businessmen Meet, Discuss Ways, Means of Getting Trade

A marked sentiment in favor of another apple blossom festival in the county prevails among groups and individuals who supported the idea last year. Albert Kurdt, local Farm Bureau manager, announced today.

The festival proposal will be discussed at a meeting of the Farm Bureau directors within the next 10 days, Mr. Kurdt said, and he indicated it is possible that some definite action may be instituted at the time of the meeting.

A festival this year, it has been pointed out, would attract many visitors from the World's Fair in New York to this area, and it is believed by those who were in charge of the promotion of the affair last year, that the opportunity for such an event will never be any greater than during this year of the fair.

Hotelmen, a number of farmers and business men of the area have expressed themselves in favor of another festival and some are already prepared to lend their support to its promotion, Mr. Kurdt indicated.

Groundwork Laid

Groundwork in making preparations for the event was well laid in the experimental venture of last year and the method of procedure therefore will be better known to those who work on the various committees this year if the festival is held.

Some also foresee the possibility of the Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival becoming a permanent thing in the interest of the farmers and business men of the area if it is run successfully this year.

Plans for continuation of the festival this year were discussed at some of the meetings last year, and it was decided then that this year would be a real test of its future possibilities.

Outside Promotion

It was pointed out last year also by those who were most active in promotion of the affair, that it should be advertised extensively out of the county and particularly this year in the metropolitan area where millions of people will come from all parts of the nation to visit the World's Fair.

Plans also were talked of last year to hold another harvest festival in the fall but action on this perhaps will be dependent upon how successful would be one held in the spring.

Hotelmen Gather

The matter of publicity for Kingston and Ulster county during the spring and summer months when thousands of visitors will be making the trip to the New York World's Fair, was one of the important topics under discussion at the regular meeting of the Hotel and Restaurant Men's Association

Still Wondering

Dewey's Assistants Continue to Speculate About 'Who Shot Brulattour'

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's aides were "still wondering" today, although they had a gun with which Jules Brulattour, wealthy husband of actress Hope Hampton, said he had shot himself accidentally.

Dewey's office said Brulattour turned over the gun yesterday, but a Dewey spokesman followed up with the statement, "we still wonder who shot Brulattour."

The 68-year-old film magnate, who said the pistol discharged as he was cleaning it, presented the weapon to investigators in his hospital room.

Earlier, they had searched Brulattour's apartment for the weapon. The handle was stained. Tests will be made to determine if the stains are blood.

American Legion Membership Unit Will Plan Drive

A special meeting of the Kingston Post, American Legion Membership Drive Committee, at which Commander Joseph E. Sills will preside, is being called for Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, by Vice-Commander Michael Bruno, who is also chairman on membership.

There are innumerable reasons why all those who served our country during the last World War, and are eligible, should be part of the local Legion," said Chairman Bruno. Take the question of rehabilitation, do you know that the Legion, through its National Rehabilitation Committee during 1938 has recovered for the needy World War veterans and their dependents, a total of $3,022,819.00 in various government benefits?

"Do you know that the boys who are obliged to spend the rest of their lives in hospitals are constantly being cheered up and looked after, visited and remembered by the Legion Posts?"

"Do you know that the Legion Memorial Building is as fully equipped as high standing clubs in the city?"

Chairman Bruno extends an invitation to all past-commanders to be present and assist in the necessary plans that will start his committee off on a successful drive. This invitation is also extended to the members at large.

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Hope was revived in the stock market today as leaders retrieved 1 to 4 points of their recently sharp losses.

The principal flaw in the upturn, from the standpoint of brokers, was that the pace slowed notably after a fairly fast opening. Gains were well maintained until near the final hour when a little profit taking shaded best marks. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 1,200,000 shares.

Wall Street was still a bit pessimistic over European affairs, and none too confident regarding domestic business trends, but buying support was said to have been attracted by the fact the list this week had taken its most severe beating since last September and, according to some theorists, was due for at least a technical comeback.

Bonds improved with stocks and major commodities displayed signs of progress. Helpful to sentiment was the much better action of foreign markets. Selling of American securities from abroad, blamed partly for frightened domestic liquidation in the past several days, also dried up and buying orders were reported from overseas.

Prominent on the rising tide were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Westinghouse, du Pont, Johns-Manville, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Glenn Martin, Anaconda, Kennecott, Consolidated Edison, N. Y. Central, Southern Railway, Montgomery Ward and U. S. Rubber.

Given a boost in the curb were Lockheed, Horn & Hardart, American Gas and Lake Shore Mines.

Fabar Is Arrested

jamin Sleight.

VICTORIOUS INSURGENTS SALUTE ANTHEM

Scenes like this were quite common in Barcelona after troops of Generalissimo Francisco Franco captured the city, erstwhile Loyalist capital and greatest industrial center, meeting with but slight resistance from the Spanish government troops. It shows Franco's warriors listening at salute to the insurgent anthem throbbing from a sound truck in the city of Lerida, captured during the victorious drive on Barcelona.

Insurgents Push Past Barcelona

Premier Mussolini but was turned back by police.

The students, their ranks swelled by many Fascists, raised a clamor for Il Duce under his balcony in the Piazza Venezia until he twice answered by appearing to salute them.

Unable to reach the French embassy, the throng marched to the two Spanish embassies in Rome to cheer "free Spain."

(The Spanish insurgents maintain embassies both to the Italian government and the Holy See.) At Zara, on the Dalmatian coast, students celebrating the insurgent capture of Barcelona paraded past an upturned steel helmet into which they dropped contributions to a fund being raised throughout Italy for the return of Italian war dead from cemeteries in France.

To many Fascists, France has become Italy's No. 1 potential enemy.

Foreign circles expressed belief that the fall of Barcelona had brought near the day when Italy would present to France a bill for payment of "Fascist colonial claims."

Mussolini promoted Brigadier General Gastone Gambara, commander of Italian troops in Spain, to the rank of general of division.

Many in the foreign colonies thought that Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler would advance demands for appeasement simultaneously, possibly within the next week.

The Fascist press published without comment foreign reports forecasting joint action January 30 when Chancellor Hitler speaks to the German Reichstag.

An official statement two weeks ago said the issue between Italy and France could not be dealt with until the end of the Spanish war. Fascists today considered that the war virtually ended with the capture of Barcelona by the insurgents.

She was born in Norway, but had lived in the United States for over 51 years. During her residence here she had made a host of friends by her fine Christian character and willingness to assist anyone in sickness or trouble. For many years she was a faithful member of the Edenville M. E. Church. Besides her husband she leaves one daughter, Mrs. Claus Clausen of New Salem, two sisters, Mrs. Frederica Baker of Chicago, Ill., and Mrs. Alice Johnson of Forest City, Ia., also two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Reis of No. 19 Ridge street, who died last Tuesday following a lengthy illness. His many relatives and friends gathered at the home and proceeded to the church for the services. The Rev. John P. Neuman, pastor, sat in the chancel during the Mass. The music was under the direction of Professor Arthur Belch and the soloist was William Raible who sang "O Salutaris" at the offertory and at the conclusion "Ave Maria." On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock the Rev. Father Herdegen led a large delegation of St. Peter's Holy Name Society in the recitation of the Holy Rosary for the repose of the soul of a departed member. Many Mass cards and beautiful floral pieces were sent to the home. Bearers were William, Leo, Nicholas, Frank and George Reis and Jacob Schneider. Burial was made in the family plot in St. Peter's cemetery where the Rev. Father Herdegen gave the final absolution.

George W. Moore Re-elected Head of Real Estate Board

City Assessor George W. Moore was elected for the third year as president of the Kingston Real Estate Board at its meeting Thursday evening at Faye's Restaurant. Other officers elected were Frank S. Hyatt, vice-president; James E. Sneed, secretary, and Arthur J. Burns, treasurer.

The board went on record as opposing the proposal in congress to remove by statute the tax exempt feature on federal, state and municipal securities. The board believes that such action would place a further obligation on the already over-taxed property owner.

The board discussed again the necessity of a greater effort being made toward the industrial situation in the city, feeling that Kingston should have more of its citizens active in the work of securing more factories that would employ men.

Christmas Cheer Committee Closes With $470 Fund

The Mayor's Christmas Cheer Committee made public today its annual report of finances, showing that they closed the year with a balance of $470.53, and that over 1,800 children, who might otherwise have been overlooked by Santa Claus, were remembered on Christmas in Kingston.

The report showed that all candy, fruit and most of the toys were donated. Toy repairing was done by members of the National Youth Administration and the Kingston fire department with Santa Claus's workshops located in the Central Fire Station, Wiltwyck Station and Cornell Station.

He hauled the defenders out one after another, a captain, a lieutenant, a sergeant and several privates, all Italian. Then, filling both hands again with bombs to keep the prisoners in subjection, he drove them back to the republican lines and sauntered off to get his wounds dressed.

STAMP FLAVORS

It's hard to go along with the Detroit News in demanding distinctive flavors for postage stamps. The idea is to make the stamps distinguishable in the dark, by their taste, as they are now in daylight by their color.

When you get right down to it, a lot of us are not a bit enthusiastic about the colors Mr. Farley is putting on his stamps. They may be all right for the collectors, who have an entirely different scale of values; but esthetically they often leave much to be desired. And if Mr. Farley gives us such weird colors, what could we expect if he went in for flavors?

No, good taste in postage stamps, as you might say, demands no taste at all. By daylight or dark, we'd rather lick 'em without knowing whether they were wintergreen, mint, peach, lemon, ginger, molasses or garlic. If stamps have to be made distinguishable in the dark, it could be done by embossing them and reading them by the touch system.

 CAUSE AND TREATMENT OF BOILS.

The usual treatment for a boil now is to let it alone or perhaps apply a "drawing" ointment to cover the boil only and not the surrounding skin. The use of poultices on the surrounding skin is a mistake. A poultice that just covers the boil helps to draw the contents of the boil to a "head." When the boil is ready to open, a toothpick is dipped in carbolic acid and used to make an opening in the boil to allow pus to come out.

Where there is a "crop" of boils or a carbuncle (a large swelling or lump with a number of openings), no "home" treatment should be attempted and a physician should be consulted. However, when boils occur from time to time the underlying cause or causes should be sought. Treatment directed toward the removal of these underlying causes usually results in success.

"It consists of the removal of local sources of friction—collars, clothing, the removal of substances obstructing the opening of the hair roots (dirt, oil, pimples), the treatment of any infection (tooth, sinuses, the treatment of underlying skin ailments, acne, pimples), dandruff, hives, eczema, itch, and the treatment, when present, of too much sugar in the blood, anaemia, undernourishment and the like. Some cases seem to be associated with anxiety or overwork. Increased fresh air and sunshine or a long holiday may prevent the attacks of boils."

The thought then when boils occur from time to time is to try to find the cause among those mentioned above, and then undergo treatment by ultra-violet or X-ray to improve the tone and infection-resisting ability of the skin.

It should be remembered also that the eating of too much starch food—bread, potatoes, sweets—may greatly increase the amount of sugar in the blood and be a factor in causing boils.

Babson on Business

Commodity Prices at Four-Year Low

Babson Says Stable Prices Aid to Better Business

Babson Park, Florida, Jan. 27.—Thus current recovery period of business is unique. We have had four sharp upswings since 1932 and each one has been passed by a vigorous rise in prices of raw materials, clothing, and foodstuffs. This time, however, prices have gone down, rather than up. As a result, many business men and investors are confused. They think that we may be experiencing just another bubble which may burst at any time. I take the opposite view. The fact prices have not increased seems to me to be a bullish, rather than a bearish, sign.

Since the low point last June, business has skyrocketed 25 per cent. Commodities prices, however, are slightly below the June level and are at the lowest point since December, 1934. The failure of such major commodities as cotton, wheat, steel, copper, sugar and coal to score good gains makes many people skeptical of any further advances in business. It is a curious fact that some people can never foresee a new period of prosperity until the old level of raw material quotations is restored.

Three War Price Booms

There have been three violent commodity price booms and three drastic commodity price panics in the last 150 years. The first boom came during the Napoleonic Wars of the early 1800's. After the Battle of Waterloo, prices broke sharply and receded to the pre-war level. Then prices were steady until the War Between the States touched off a new price boom. After Lee's surrender, there was another panic which brought prices back again to the pre-war level. This was followed by a long period of stability. The same pattern was re-enacted as a result of the World War.

The important point about these commodity movements is that prices rise rapidly during the hostilities and decline to the pre-war levels leisurely. The explanation for this trend is simple. During wartime, governments urgently need munitions, clothing, and foodstuffs. They need them so badly it matters little what prices they pay. The supply of materials and labor is low. Hence, the huge demand, coupled with the small supply, can mean only a price boom. However, as soon as the war is over, excessive demand ceases and the supply of goods increases. Naturally, prices crack.

Post War Panics Inevitable

A period of readjustment from the excesses of a major war is absolutely necessary. Huge debts are contracted when prices of products are sky-high. These debts cannot be met when prices fall. Loans on land in North Dakota, for instance, at $400 an acre may be safe with wheat selling for $2.50 a bushel, but not when it falls to 60 cents. Hence, there is always post-war agitation for government support of raw material quotations. This has happened after each major war since 1800. Yet, despite artificial measures, prices have always persisted in seeking their pre-war level.

Take our own case. Since 1926, we have tried every trick in the economic bag in attempting to hold-up and to boost prices. Despite this, they have followed the historical pattern and have sought their pre-war level. A study of price movements of the past century and a half reveals three facts that are especially important now.

After prices have settled back to the pre-war level, they do not rise again until a new major war comes along, unless radical inflation occurs.

During these phases of price stability, we have enjoyed long periods of business prosperity. The controlling factor is—the faith, industriousness, and behavior of the people.

Prosperity Without Higher Prices

That we can have good business without rising prices may be a new thought to the money tinkers at Washington, but not to the historians. In fact, rising prices may hold back, rather than speed up, prosperity. They often cause buying ahead on speculation. Overstocking means less orders and less factory activity later on, with a resultant break in prices. This has been the case ever since 1932. Each vigorous upswing in business has been accompanied by a sensational mark-up in raw material quotations.

Here is a specific example of how stable prices help business: Right now payrolls are rising, dividend payments are better, and government money is pouring out. With prices steady, this improvement in consumer buying power means that more goods can be bought. This means that more orders will be received at factories and more money will go into pay envelopes—and around the circle again. In the building field particularly, stable costs will help. The construction outlook was just as promising in early 1936 as it is today, but too sharp a rise in costs killed the revival.

Living Costs to Inch Up

Consequently, I am glad that raw material prices have sagged, rather than increased, since recovery started. This strengthens my belief that 1939 should see moderate price increases in many raw materials. These gains will be carried through to retail prices. But I doubt if there will be any spectacular mark-ups such as occurred in past booms.

I cannot agree with those people who are bearish because commodity prices are not rising. They are merely following the long-term trend which history shows they always follow. The only question is inflation. If government spending is not curbed, the nation is headed for some kind of inflation sooner or later. However, this is not an immediate factor. For 1939, readers can expect slightly higher raw material prices and a moderate increase in their food, fuel, clothing and furniture bills.

European Situation Makes Uncertain Just How Much Economic Recovery There Will Be in 1939

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1939

Washington, Jan. 27.—As Congress debates whether to add or subtract from the proposed appropriation for relief through the WPA, the European situation raises its menacing clouds over the American business situation and makes uncertain just how much recovery there will be in 1939.

There are two schools of thought here on matters European—those who think that the United States is affected by anything that happens across the Atlantic, and those who think we are directly and indirectly affected in an economic sense the moment anything occurs to unsettle the British pound sterling in world trade.

Italy's victory in Spain is as much a Nazi or Fascist triumph as if the Fascist armies had openly declared war. The myth that a "civil war" has been going on in Spain is accepted by many here for technical reasons relating to the question of neutrality or the lifting of an embargo, but the fact remains that the Spanish war has now become an open threat to France. This, in turn, involves Britain. Again Europe has a crisis as significant as that which preceded Munich.

Whether a general war ensues or whether the Fascist march continues to encircle the rest of Europe, penetrating certain influential groups in France, and, it may be, forcing serious dissension in France itself, the outlook for stabilized trade and currencies is worse today than it has been for three years. It is true that America's foreign trade is a small percentage of the total national income, it is also true that anything which unsettles a $5,000,000,000 exchange of goods both ways across the Atlantic is a demoralizing influence.

Some branches of trade, such as airplanes, are benefiting by the European preparations for war, but the prospect of depreciating units of currency can hardly be of immediate help to American producers whose prices for export will seem higher to European buyers or to American producers who must compete with goods made abroad and coming into America which become lower in price as they are expressed in American dollars. It is equivalent to a tariff reduction. Certainly, the situation presents a puzzle as to how kaleidoscopic changes of this kind could ever be dealt with under a system requiring Senate ratification for reciprocal trade agreements, such as now is being urged in the Senate, in lieu of the flexible executive agreements which now are in force, and permit prompt adjustment by the state department to fluctuating conditions abroad.

It may be, of course, that the United States government can do nothing about the approaching crisis except to wait for overt acts to American trade, and it may be that the proponents of complete stoppage of trade on the high seas so as to prevent all possible entanglement with European nations will have a majority of both houses of Congress. But, if this is so, it appears difficult to understand how anyone who votes against American participation in foreign trade, when endangered, can also vote to cut down relief appropriations through the WPA to take care of the unemployment which will come as a consequence of our self-enforced isolation policy.

It is because the real sentiment here favors doing anything and everything to keep America out of war and out of even indirect participation in European affairs that one may foresee the greater, instead of the lesser need for WPA appropriations. Up to now, the main argument for refusing to grant the full WPA appropriation of $875,000,000 asked for by the administration has been that recovery was coming and that $725,000,000 is enough. Nobody is able to foretell what the unemployed rolls will be two or three months hence. Irrespective of what Congress does on the WPA appropriation, a few months hence, if Europe is in a turmoil and world trade is suffering, sharply, none of the figures suggested for relief may be enough, whereas some not now foreseen force which can assure peace in Europe and stabilize world trade would relieve the American taxpayers of the burdens they are going to carry to pay the relief bill. Mussolini's words of elation over what Italian troops have done in Spain, France's warning through the foreign secretary that foreign troops must get out of Spain, Nazi conspiracies to upset the government of Rumania, where important raw materials needed by Hitler are to be found, and the prospect of big increases in debt in Britain to build more armament—all this doesn't spell more trade for the United States. Nor does it spell stability in South American countries which depend on the sale of their products to European countries in order to get the funds with which to buy goods from the people of the United States. The outlook abroad definitely affects the outlook inside America, and, when one is cleared up, the other, to no small extent, will be cleaned up, too.

Wortman Falls to Death

New York, Jan. 27 (AP).—Martin Wortman, 53, who rose from a draper to president of Ludwig Baumann, New York's largest furniture store chain, fell to his death in an elevator shaft late yesterday in one of the stores he helped create. Employees found him still alive, atop an elevator. He died 20 minutes later. Store officials said they believed he fell through an open elevator door on the 11th floor, but police said no doors were open. Under his presidency, the eight Baumann stores did a $12,000,000 business last year. He is survived by his widow, a son, a daughter, a brother and two sisters.

Virginia Horticulturist Gives Talk on Market Effect of Culls

A subject which for years has been discussed by fruit growers—the free movement of cull apples in New York state and its effect on the market for better grades—was brought up at the start of the Thursday afternoon session of the State Horticultural Society, with an address by W. S. Campfield of Staunton, Va., secretary of the Virginia State Horticultural Society.

Mr. Campfield spoke on the topic, "Should the Movement of Cull Apples be Regulated by Law?" He said that the subject was a knotty one, but after studying the problem for a number of years, expressed the opinion that "regulation of cull apples moving to the fresh fruit market should be applicable to all states east of the Rocky Mountains, both within the state and in interstate commerce."

No Successful Argument
The speaker could see no successful argument against the statement that the industry would profit financially if a reasonable percentage of low-grade apples were diverted from the fresh fruit market. Especially would this be desirable now in a period of overproduction due to restricted foreign trade and the increased use of competing fruits and vegetables due to advertising. It was stated that per capita consumption of apples had dropped 26 per cent in the 1931-35 period, compared with 1921-25.

Mr. Campfield said that he had been trying to find some practical method of regulating culls, but had not found it. "It is easy to say that we should pass such a law, or resort to a certain regulation," he said, "but will it work?"

As to certain laws in force he said, "The Florida orange law cannot be applied to apples. The cull regulation of the state of Washington is based on their orchard sanitation law, which is a splendid law, but far more drastic than eastern states can or would adopt. Nor will the Maine potato law work."

A federal law, similar to the apple and pear export act was seen as expensive in operation and further "growers in many sections would rebel against compulsory inspection, and well they should." Even were there such a federal law it was considered useless if state growers were allowed to flood their own states with culls. The answer, of course, would be uniform state laws as well as a federal law. The speaker said that one plan "would be to have apples included in the crop control and allotment 'dream' of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, but a large percentage of growers in Virginia and nearby states would oppose this to the bitter end."

Fit Only for Hogs
Regarding the sale of inferior apples the speaker said that during the past three years he had visited 65 of the principal markets east of the Mississippi, from New Orleans to Boston and had seen in these markets "apples from Virginia, from Illinois, from New York and each of the other apple growing states east of the Rocky Mountains fit only for the hog pen—with apologies to the hogs."

As a possible aid to the situation it was suggested that some mild regulation might be had under the Federal Food and Drug Act through which inspectors could go into the markets and condemn lots of apples which had become filthy with decay because of being held too long. A more stringent plan might be adopted later.

In concluding Mr. Campfield said "In seeking a solution of the cull apple problem, let us keep in mind that the objective should be quantity consumption of sound apples within the reach of all pocketbooks and not a limited consumption of high-grade, high-priced apples only." He was convinced that there should be a place for all sound apples 2 inches or 2 1/4 inches and up in size, depending upon the variety.

Others Give Viewpoints
Mr. Campfield's address was followed by a discussion on "How I am Packing for My Trade," by Clifford Miller of Claverack, Palmer Hart, Red Hook, Talcott Crowell and Alfred Bedell, Wallkill.

Mr. Hart explained that he packed no apples of his own, but did pack for a group of growers. Briefly his procedure is to receive the fruit in storage "tree run" or with "ciders out." The apples are delivered to him in a gift box and the same box is used in packing for his market. He packs hard apples, such as Baldwins, Greenings, Homers and Jonathans, as soon as possible. He packs McIntosh and Spys when sold and ordered for delivery. New crates only are used, with new liners and new shredded paper. The style of pack is face and fill. The sizes packed are usually 2 1/4, straight, 2 1/2, and 3" up. The grade packed is in conformity to federal and state regulations or better.

Mr. Hart went on to discuss at length some of the more glaring shortcomings of many Hudson Valley growers and the reason why they were not receiving the lion's share of the most important markets of the U. S., which are near them, nor the foreign market.

State of Washington apples were seen having the preference by a great many eastern buyers, because of reliability and honesty of pack, backed by an aggressive advertising campaign. Southern apples, too, were seen displacing Hudson Valley apples when available, and apples from Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, were meeting with increasing favor. Good packing, closely supervised and in most cases federal or state inspection was given as the reason for the trade's preference for these outside apples.

Mr. Hart said that Hudson

Valley growers had fallen down on their job and tossed their natural opportunities into the Hudson river. Said he: "We still pack our apples in second hand crates, egg boxes, and I have even seen apples packed in second hand beer boxes. We use second hand liners, newspapers for liners, or no box liners at all. We cheapen our pack at every opportunity. To save pennies, we lose dollars. By the very fact that we dress up our apples so shabbily, we create the impression among buyers that our apples are of poor quality."

"Sometimes I believe that the law of gravity has more effect upon the Hudson Valley grower than on any other grower on earth. It must be so. How else could all the wormy and scabby apples get into the bottom of the box? I feel reasonably sure that the grower placed them on the face of his package; they must gravitate to the bottom."

"The time has come to cease packing by individuals," said Mr. Hart. "We must cease to have a thousand and one different packs. We must concentrate the packing job and pack under a few brands. We must have a large volume of uniformly packed apples, in order to move our fruit easily, orderly and profitably. We must either build up a reputation for our fruit or be content to occupy the lower places in our industry."

"The profit of the fruit industry in this valley lies in packing our fruit honestly and attractively, and in obtaining the just premium good fruit is entitled to; in the elimination of culls from our markets; in having for sale a few well-established brands, of good reputation, in growing hands. There is no possibility of packing top market prices for all of us as long as we have hundreds of styles of pack being sold by people not posted on market conditions, and who are weak-kneed."

Mr. Crowell offered much of the same criticism as did Mr. Hart. He found New York state apple growers not only backward in merchandising methods but losing to growers who put only well packed fruit on the market.

He said that he had tried many methods of packing in attempting to get his major crop, McIntosh apples, which are very tender, on the market with as few bruises as possible. He has not yet solved the problem satisfactorily. He had found that wrapping apples individually in cellophane overcame many difficulties and extra returns offset the added cost. His only trouble was that he had not as yet used a box that was suited to this method of packing, all of the eastern boxes he had used being too wide.

Mr. Crowell suggested that the experiment station could be of great assistance if it would work out the packing problem for the producers. He was also in favor of the retailer being required to label the grade of apples he sells and that such a requirement be made a part of the grading law. He believed that growers could increase their net proceeds by marketing fewer apples, but ones that are well matured, well packed and highly consumable. He had found that marketing inferior apples, poorly packed, helped neither the grower nor the industry.

It was suggested that the convention make an appropriation to study the matter of grading and marketing apples.

Mortgage Rights Granted Church

Justice Harry E. Schirick has signed an order authorizing the officials of the North Reformed Protestant Dutch Church of Esopus, at Port Ewen, to mortgage its property to the amount of $2,900. Harry H. Flemming appeared for the petitioners.

The trustees petitioned the court for leave to mortgage the parsonage property in Port Ewen on Salem and Green street to the amount of $2,900. That sum will be used to pay up a note held by the Kingston Trust Company and for payment of advances made by members of the congregation.

At a meeting of the church officials on December 16, it was voted to seek a mortgage loan from the Rondout Savings Bank and to use the proceeds of the loan to pay up the present notes. This application made to the Supreme Court has been approved. The petitioners state that the real value of the property of the church is $15,000 and the personal property is valued at $3,000.

Trustees of the church are Charles Van Orden of Ulster Park, Lester O. Ferguson, Scott O. Vining, Chauncey Freer, Floyd N. Ellsworth, Floyd Deemer, Harry N. Newton and Harry Van Orner, all of Port Ewen. Officers are George Berens, president; Charles Van Orden, vice president; Chauncey Freer, treasurer, and Floyd N. Ellsworth, clerk.

Kingston Golden Glovers' Boxing Program Tonight At Municipal Auditorium

The Golden Gloves eliminations, finally awarded to Kingston after efforts of two years, will go on at the municipal auditorium for the first time tonight, at which time 15 bouts will go on according to the schedule arranged by the Adirondack division of the A. A. U. Boys in the novice and open classes will battle it out tonight for advancement in the Golden Gloves tournament which offers titles and a trip to San Francisco, Cal. with all expenses paid by the Amateur Athletic Union.

The first scrap tonight is slated for 5:30 o'clock, a half hour earlier than usual, in order to get in the 15 bouts on the program, each of the matches is scheduled for three two minutes rounds.

Reports from the various training quarters are that the gloves are all anxious and that plenty of action should be furnished in the auditorium ring when they begin slugging leather. The novices especially are expected to give plenty of thrills as they slug away with their Frisco trip as their goal.

Morans' Defeat Katsbaan 23-22

Last night the Moran quintet traveled to Bigelow Hall where they nosed out the highly touted Katsbaan Indians, 23-22, in a game marked by a spectacular finish by the local basketballers.

Trailing by two points at half-time, the Moran basketballers came back strong in the final frame to cap the contest on foul conversions.

Art Crist led the Moran quintet, garnering a total of nine points on five fouls and a pair of fields, while Theln chalked up 11 markers for the losers.

Ferrell Happy Over New Ball

Sarasota, Fla., Jan. 27 (AP)—Catcher Rick Ferrell of the Washington Senators sees the new baseball adopted last month as a boon to American League pitchers.

"When a ball with raised seams is used you aren't going to find so many hurt arms," Ferrell said.

"That's the trouble now. A pitcher has to throw his arm away trying to get some unnatural delivery to fool the batter."

"But give him a ball he can grip and you'll see better baseball and fewer ailing arms."

Barmanns and Kinneys Score Victories in the City League

Kingston High At Ellenville

Kingston High School's rambling basketball machine rambled over to Ellenville tonight to complete its first round in DUSO League competition. Despite Ellenville's recent accomplishments on the court, the Klansmen reign as heavy favorites. Game time is 8:15.

Tonight's battle will be Kingston's final out-of-town engagement until February 14 when it travels to Monticello. For the next two weeks the Maroon and White warriors will have Port Jervis and Newburgh as their guests at the auditorium boards.

Two other fairly important games are on the card tonight besides the Kingston-Ellenville brawl. Port Jervis plays host to Liberty in what looks to be one of the 38-39 classics. The other fray includes Middletown and Newburgh battling it out at the Goldback gym.

Even though the league standings may fall to be changed tonight by these frays, something is sure to be the outcome as to the individual scoring honors. Jim Harrison and "Yutch" Meadow, two of the present leaders, will have their chance down in Port while Jess Shultis, Kingston's representative in the high-scoring ledger, will attempt to riddle the wicket at random against the mountaineers from Ellenville.

Last week this plucky Ellenville squad pulled a DUSO League game out of the fire by trampling over Monticello in the closing minutes for a 27 to 24 triumph. Although there's not much of a chance for the Ellenvillers to cop the pennant this season they'll be only too willing tonight to knock out Kingston.

Last year the once-beaten Maroon five pounded Ellenville freely by scores of 40 to 7 and 36 to 22. In the second victory Jess Shultis, then a sub forward, left some evidence of his skill by coming through with 18 markers.

For Kingston's benefit Ellenville has never been a difficult team. However, the never-say-die mountaineers put on a fight to the finish. All of which means that Kingston should, even though the final tally may be quite close, come out victorious.

June graduation also was mean with Ellenville, but there's still a few veterans around to take up for their former buddies. Bob Nissenbaum, Rosenstein, Pine, Roy Hoon, Lazaritz, Bill Robinson and Carl Friend are back. Nissenbaum and Robinson are the most reliable.

The tentative starting lineups: Kingston Ellenville Shultis LF Nissenbaum RF Flowers RF Pine Van Buren LG Lazaritz Dubin LG Robinson Murphy RG Robinson

High Falls Firemen Win Over Stone Ridge Quintet by 31-26

The High Falls Firemen defeated the Stone Ridge Grangers last night at Firemen's Hall 31 to 26 in a fast game. The Riders held a 15 to 13 lead at the half, but the firemen ran up on them shortly after the second half started.

The Grange team failed to convert their fouls and made only six out of 21 tries. They were without their two aces, Charlie Neff and Charlie Beck, and used Tony Debrosky, who made 11 points for high scoring honors. Andy Celuch played his usual bang-up game for High Falls scoring eight points. The Firemen have won five out of their seven home games so far this season.

In the preliminary the Falls Juniors won from the Five Finger Juniors, 32-21.

Last Workouts For Coast Tourney

Del Mar, Calif., Jan. 27 (AP)—The nation's leading golf professionals pulled up at the last stop on the California winter tournament trail today and took final practice shots before launching into the third annual $3,000 amateur-pro event staged by Singer Blag Crosby.

Play in the 36-hole tournament at the nearby Rancho Santa Fe Golf Club begins tomorrow and winds up Sunday.

Sam Sneed was abruptly called home by the illness of his 75-year-old mother.

Those City Basketball League Thrillers Stated for Last Night were not so spectacular as forecast.

Barmanns outshot the Baltz five, 28-14, for league leadership, and Kinneys outpointed Leonards 37-30.

Rhymer and Gilday led the Barmann shooters with eight apiece and Bruce made 10 for the Baltz tossers.

Jim Freilich with 14 and Mike Carpio with 11 led the Kinney attack. Jimmy Albany made 16 for the Leonards.

The JVA swamped Fullers 33-19. Scoring was pretty evenly distributed among the players of both clubs.

New Architect's Contract Is Let

Highland, Jan. 26.—The January meeting of the directors of the Centralized School district was held Friday evening and presided over by Mrs. J. D. Rose, the president. The directors executed a new architect's contract with Don P. Emley, who succeeds Edward C. Smith, who died recently. Mr. Smith of Poughkeepsie was the architect for the new school and Mr. Emley is from Mr. Smith's office.

The members discussed the color to be used on the walls of the class rooms in the new building since the color goes on the last coat of plaster which is now being applied by the Tuckahoe Keenex Interior Company. The decision was dark ivory for the ceiling with buff for the side walls. Two-tone grey tile is used in the toilets, principal's office, men's room, janitor's room, physical instruction rooms and two-tone creams in the kindergarten and health room. It was decided to place doors to the auditorium that lies under the auditorium. This will make the space more accessible. Work on the auditorium and stage has progressed so rapidly that a representative of the interior decoration company has come to check up on measurements.

The work on the project is over 50 per cent completed and a requisition for 35 per cent of the PWA grant was asked. The board members are making contracts which concern the disposal of the outside schools of which there are seven.

Ralph Lovelock, from the Edward C. Smith office was present to discuss the plaques to be placed in the entrance hall and the lettering. Bronze panels are considered for the purpose.

Philip T. Schantz as a committee of one on landscaping reported progress being made. Arthur T. Poelma, head of the agricultural department, was present and asked permission to take 12 boys from his department to the Farm and Home week to be held in Ithaca about February 12. The request was granted. Present were Mrs. Rose, Imbrie Richards, W. H. Maynard, Philip T. Schantz, A. W. Lent of the directors, A. Herbert Campbell, principal, H. A. Lent, associate counsel, Mr. Emley, Mr. Lovelock, Eugene C. Kelly, John Caravatta, engineer, Charles France, clerk, and Thomas R. Hopper.

Village Notes

Highland, Jan. 26.—Miss Isabelle Russell of Kingston spent a few days of this week at the home of her brother, William Russell, on upper Grand street.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Evans of Grand street, who left last spring on a trip to their native Greece, returned Friday to Poughkeepsie and the next day to their home here. They crossed on the S. S. Vulcania and had a terrible experience from storms and high seas. Mrs. Evans was in her birth five days, not because she was sick, but as the safest place to be. Mr. Evans was twice up on deck but officers sent him back to his state room. It is said that the ship's doctor made his rounds on hands and knees. Mr. Evans will reopen his store, which has been remodeled during his absence.

Mrs. Rose Seaman, assisted by Mrs. J. R. Meltus and Mrs. Joel Smedes, are holding a tea and game party Friday afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Seaman. This is the first of the year's events sponsored by the Auxiliary Club.

Mrs. William Dean, who had been a patient in the Nyack Hospital, is again at her home in Pearl River. Mrs. Dean suffered severe cuts on her right wrist and arm when her arm went through a window in trying to save herself from a fall. She has not recovered the use of her arm yet.

Mrs. Dean was formerly Miss Janet Preston, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Preston.

Mrs. Frank Walker returned home Tuesday after a week spent in New York.

Eaters

Mussolini

likes raw fruit

(By The AP Feature Service)

Dynamic Premier Mussolini, who sometimes pitches hay and seems to be always on the go, is a light eater.

His favorite food is fruit; "I am almost completely frugivorous," he once told an interviewer.

His meals generally are composed of soup, raw or cooked vegetables, and fruits. Sometimes he eats fish.

Mussolini is no epicure. His associates declare that he has no favorite dishes. He drinks wine only at official dinners. He doesn't smoke.

Ulster will hold its January meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the parish house of the Ascension Church at West Park. The meeting is at 2 o'clock and the subject, "Christmas in Different Countries."

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Santa—Phooey!

Vincennes, Ind. — Hereafter, four-year-old Conrad Schulte will leave this Santa Claus business to someone else.

He decided to play Santa, climbed into a 7-foot picnic furnace chimney, slid down—and stuck.

He howled, his dog howled. His father came on the run. Brick by brick, the chimney was pulled down, and Conrad, badly scared, emerged.

Idea Man

Ogden, Utah.—Location of the new county school, over which four towns have been squabbling six months, remains a perplexing problem for the board of education.

For a time it looked as if Ted Parker, board member, might have something when he proposed to "build the thing on wheels and move it around."

Then Architect Art Shreve informed the board the building, planned, would weigh 2,036,000 pounds.

Why WAIT—and WISH you hadn't?

IN the big Buick factory in Flint these days the long assembly line is running smooth as oil.

Not in ten years has production been steadier—and not in the memory of man has the work been better or the car so fine and full of dollar value.

Which is one reason we ask, man to man—what are you waiting around for?

With the first bright budding weather a flock of folks are going to itch to start traveling behind this power-packed Dynaflex straight-eight.

They're going to hear the call of the open road—and hone to answer it in smart Buick style, with BuicOil Springing to cushion them along.

They're going to come pouring in on us wanting Buicks, wanting them fast—and in spite of all we'll be able to do then, somebody may have to wait.

But the smart buyers will be all set—will be on their way looking at spring-fresh greenery through Buick's new "visibility unlimited."

They'll be having glorious fun behind this supple giant of a Dynaflex power-plant, taking their steady ease in the comfort only Buick gives.

That's why we hope you're making your decision now.

Your old car's worth more today than it will be later. You may dodge a lot of repair bills by trading in now. You buy now at prices that are lower than a year ago, lower than you'd expect, lower even than some sixes.

So why wait—and wish you hadn't?

EYE OPENER!
With all its extra value, this Buick sedan lists at $51 less than a year ago!

Seniors Announce Annual Play Plans

The annual play of the senior class of the Kingston High School will be presented February 24 and 25 in the high school auditorium. Since the days of Kingston Academy the senior play has been one of the big events of the school year, not only to the students and faculty, but also to the residents of Kingston who attend and enjoy these productions.

Those who attend annually, agree that the plays, under the direction of Miss Madeleine Tarrant, are well worth the time and effort spent in their production. This year's play promises to be no exception. Deviating from the custom of late years of presenting a comedy, the class of 1939 will present a melodrama by Bayard Weiler, "The Thirteenth Chair." The play is a well-known spine tingler, and has been produced twice in Hollywood in both silent and talking versions.

The plot concerns the Crosbys, wealthy members of society, who give a dinner party to announce the engagement of their son, Will, to Helen O'Neil, former secretary to Mrs. Crosby. After dinner one of the guests, Edward Wales, announces that he has a surprise for them. He has asked a certain Madame La Grange, a spiritualistic medium, to appear at the party and conduct a seance. The others are quite excited at the prospect. Madame La Grange enters, a slight, middle-aged Irish woman, and after a few humorous incidents the seance gets under way. Most of the guests treat the whole idea as a huge joke, but are rudely shaken from their merriment by a mysterious murder. From there the play develops into a search for the murderer, builds up to an exciting climax and surprise ending.

Helen Schoonmaker plays the part of Madame La Grange, the crafty Irish medium, who plots her cleverness against Inspector Donahue, a detective determined to solve the mystery, played by John McCullough. The romantic interest is supplied by Marguerite Farrell and William Sharkey, who play the ingenue and juvenile leads. Mr. Crosby is played by Roger Vreeland and Phillip Mason, another guest, by Milton Taitner. The cast also includes Geraldine Peters, Edwin Schultz, Justice Rowe, Faith McCullen, Maxine Taylor, Donald Weeks, Howard Braunstein, William Dippel, William Studer and Joseph Garland. All seats for the production are reserved. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the senior class or at the front corner in the high school.

Sorosis to Meet

Although it was announced early this week that the meeting of Sorosis for next week would be postponed, it has now been decided to hold the meeting Monday, January 30, at 7:45 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Clarence Dunn on Mountain View avenue. Mrs. Dunn will present the paper on "Recreational Opportunities."

Here's Quick Relief for RASPY COUGHS

DUE TO COLDS

First—put a small lump of Vicks VapoRub on your tongue and let it melt. The menthol in the Vicks VapoRub melts the inflamed membranes as it trickles down your throat—bringing comforting relief—where you want it—when you want it.

Then—take a powerful dose of VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water.

Breathe in the vapors for a few minutes.

These vapors work their way down through the air-passages, they loosen phlegm and ease the cough.

It was the second in a series of parties to raise money for the charity fund. The first was a card party in November. In charge of the social party last evening were the charity committee headed by the grand regent, Miss Marian Tunney, Mrs. Robert Lison, Miss Jane Madden, Mrs. Florian Wingert, Miss Katherine Gallagher and assisted by other officers of the organization.

Your Party A Success With These New Games

Everybody "Acts Up" in This!

Why is Jack in such a daffy pose? He's pretending he's Donald Duck, of all things! This lively game is "Nursery-Rhymesters"—a brand new scheme for breaking the ice at parties.

Give each guest a slip of paper with the name of the "nursery" character he's to act—also paper and pencil to write down his guesses about the characters the others act. Can't you see husky Bob sniffing imaginary flowers as Ferdinand the Bull? And what a mystery as Dot tries out the chair—a la Goldilocks in the bear's house! The best guesser gets a book of nursery rhymes. And here's a stunt that's especially fun at a Valentine party. Each guest must write a compliment about the girl or boy chosen to be "it." Then the hostess reads the compliments aloud—"Your eyes say me," "What S. A.!" and so on. The blushing victim must guess who wrote which—and when the guess is right, the author of that compliment becomes "it."

Fun—every minute when you play these and many other hilarious games from our 32-page booklet. Contains fortune stunts, team games, brain-teasers, new style spelling bees, ice-breakers—everything to make your party go. Send 10c in coin for your copy of PARTY GAMES FOR ALL OCCASIONS. To The Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Speaker Attacks Chain Store Bill

Defense of farmers of their own marketing outlets was seen as an optimistic forecast of defeat of anti-chain store legislation, by William W. Brady, speaker of the Horticultural convention at the Governor Clinton Hotel yesterday. Mr. Brady is manager of the produce operations for the Grand Union Company.

Brady traced the course of farm opposition to the Patman anti-chain store "death sentence" tax bill and stated that the protests, together with those of labor, consumer groups and business men, "will put a stop to these legislative threats to the public welfare."

"That, I think, is grounds for optimism in the future of agriculture," he said.

The Patman bill, introduced by Representative Wright Patman of Texas, as H. R. 1, would place a tax on chain stores graduated up to $1,000 a store, times the number of states in which a chain company operates.

"Representative Patman has candidly stated that the purpose of his bill is to destroy chain stores," Brady said.

Penguin Chatter

MRS. QUACKER thought she had never seen more interesting looking creatures. After all there were times when she might want to quarrel with Mrs. Quacko, but it was wonderful to know some one who seemed to meet creatures from all over the world as did Mrs. Quacko.

"Thank you for the feathers," said Mrs. Johnny, in a rather low, cawing voice. "But these odds and ends you see around here we've picked up ourselves on our walks. We hope it's all right."

"You know we're curious by nature and we see things and like to pick them up and bring them home. It's fun to make odd collections."

At that moment Rip came running along, barking.

"I left a bone back on the hill and I can't find it and I'm sure I remember where I left it."

Rip looked at Christopher Columbus Crow.

"Now don't look at me," cawed Christopher. "Dear me, my life is a sad one. I'm always thought to be the guilty person. Willy Nilly was trying to attract Rip's attention so he wouldn't say anything more about the bone, but Mrs. Johnny Penguin spoke."

"I took it I thought it was interesting. We penguins do a lot of sharing of food and we'll feed the little ones of other penguins, too."

"But do take this back, I don't really need it," barked Rip, and Willy Nilly was proud of his dog, and stroked his silky ears.

"Oh," cawed and barked Mrs. Johnny Penguin, "this is such a lovely nest. It's so much nicer than laying an egg on the ice the way the Emperor and King Penguins do."

Mrs. Quacko fluttered with excitement. "You're sitting on something in that nest," she quacked. "Hush," whispered Willy Nilly, and he stroked the backs of the penguins so they wouldn't be afraid.

Four Below Zero Is Official Reading

City Hall Reading, However, Not So Frigid as Elsewhere in Vicinity Earlier

With the official city thermometer at the city hall recording a low of 4 degrees below zero at 6:30 o'clock this morning, the city was gripped in the coldest weather so far this winter. This was the first time this winter that the official city thermometer has recorded sub-zero temperature.

In other sections of the city, lower recordings were reported, some thermometers dropping as low as 8 degrees below the zero mark.

This was the second day this month that sub-zero temperatures have been recorded in Kingston. While thermometers in other sections of the city were recording as low as 5 degrees below "zero" today, the official city thermometer's lowest recording was 2 degrees above.

Martin Describes Excelsior's Start

Excelsior Hose Company of Hurley avenue this year is observing its 68th anniversary, and Foreman William B. Martin presiding as toastmaster at the annual banquet of the fire company Thursday evening at the Kit Kat Restaurant on Washington avenue recalled an interesting bit of fireman's history when he introduced President Charles Mullen of the Kingston Board of Fire Commissioners, who was one of the company's guests at the banquet.

Mr. Martin said that 68 years ago as a group of men sat one winter evening nearly three quarters of a century ago around a bugle not belted store in a store on North Front street they were discussing affairs of the locality, and finally the conversation drifted to fireman's matters and Egbert Mullen, grandfather of President Mullen, said that he would deed a plot of ground to be used for the site of a fire house on Hurley avenue if the other men present agreed to form a volunteer fire company.

Mr. Mullen's proposal was accepted. He deeded the land on Hurley avenue where the present fire house stands and Excelsior Hose was born.

As dancing was to follow the banquet Toastmaster Martin said that the only address of the evening would be that delivered by Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, who was present as a guest of the company. Deputy Fire Chief Fred M. Leavitt was also a guest.

The fire chief spoke briefly and complimented Excelsior Hose on the excellent record it had established since its organization and then devoted the remainder of his talk to matters of interest to the firemen.

Following the chief's brief talk the tables were shoved back and the dance floor cleared so that the dancing and their lady friends could dance to the strains of Walter DeGrall's orchestra, who also played during the serving of the banquet.

The annual banquet was largely attended and proved one of the outstanding events in the social history of the fire company.

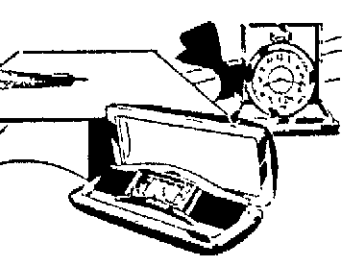

This year Excelsior Hose is planning to take part in the big parade that marks the close of the annual convention of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association which will be held in Catskill in June. They will also parade at the annual convention of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association which will be held later in the summer.

330 People Attend Annual Banquet Of State Growers

In line with the attendance at the meetings being held at the armory and the extent of the exhibits being shown there, the annual dinner of the New York State Horticultural Society, held at the Governor Clinton Thursday night, set a new high record for these eastern meeting dinners, both dining rooms and the sun parlors being utilized to accommodate some 330 members and guests present.

Walter Clarke of Milton, past president of the society, acted as toastmaster and presided during the program which followed the serving of the roast beef dinner. Jane Ball, Ulster county Apple Blossom Queen last year, was presented by Mr. Clarke as the guest of honor and was given a seat at the speaker's table, amid the applause of the assembled guests.

Mayor Heiselman, who again cordially welcomed the visitors, noted that Ulster county raised not only beautiful apples, but also beautiful queens. The mayor was pleased to hear that the society was considering an apple pie contest as one of the events at a future meeting and suggested that he would appreciate being put on such a committee.

J. Roe Stevenson, present head of the Horticultural Society, in expressing his appreciation of the honor that had been given him, called attention to the fact that he was neither an eastern nor a western man, but had his home practically on the dividing line. Saying that many fruit growers of the western part of the state had their roots in the Hudson Valley section, he referred to the fact that one of his great grandfathers was Charles Clarke of Milton, an apple grower and another was Peter Roe of Cornwall, who raised small fruits, while still another, although a Connecticut Yankee, came to Kinderhook and later resided in the finger lakes region and was a fruit grower.

Mr. Clarke presented Theodore Oxholm of Eposus to present the awards won by the young folks in the junior program contests at the armory, a list of which is printed elsewhere. It was noted that this year for the first Ulster county had made an exhibit in this class.

The annual speaking contest featuring three boys, selected as the result of elimination contests in the territory, was an event that held the interest of all. The contestants made a fine showing and all did so well that the judges had their hands full. They announced, finally, that first place, and a prize of $10 had been awarded to John Walker, 17, of Marlborough, who was told that he won out by his "drive" in the last third of his speech. The other two contestants were judged "even up" and were each given prizes of $5. They were E. K. Lucas, 15, of Delmar, N. Y., and John Mettler, 15, of Hillsdale, N. Y.

The winner discussed cooperative marketing of fruit and stressed the need of cooperative effort as well as advertising, careful grading of fruit and attractive packages to advance the interests of Hudson Valley fruit growers. The California Fruit Growers Exchange was cited as an outstanding example of what cooperation will do. The speaker said that they had built up the enormous business of $85,000,000 a year and spent over $800,000 a year advertising their products. The New York and New England Apple Institute, started in 1937 and the G. L. F. Marketing Cooperative were named as agencies that were proving helpful.

E. K. Lucas, speaking on the topic, "An Apple a Day," made a good case for the outstanding therapeutic value of apples in the diet. He also stressed the need of advertising, which, he said, "costs money" and would demand the support of all fruit growers. John Mettler told an interesting story of the apple. He located the first tree in eastern Asia, told how grafting (of apples) dated back some 2,000 years and how Calo had seven varieties of apples. Systematic propagation of apples in the United States dated back to 1880, he said.

The awards were presented by Halser B. Knapp, head of the Farmington Institute and who recently succeeded Willard Davis as president of the State Agricultural Society.

Mr. Knapp was a winner of the first speaking contests held by the society back in 1912. He said that he saw in the recognition of youth one of the most important developments in the organization.

The main address of the evening was given by W. S. Campfield, secretary of the Virginia State Horticultural Society, who was introduced by Mr. Clarke as "a man who has achieved great prominence in horticultural work."

Mr. Campfield's address was an outstanding one, replete not only with suggestions of practical value but interspersed with humor that was infectious. He was particularly pleased with the work done by the three boys who participated in the contest of oratory. "Those were three splendid addresses," he said, "and I am glad I was not on the judging team."

The speaker said that he was glad to address horticulturists of the second largest apple state in the Union. He said that his own state, Virginia, was third—and when New York growers weren't in hearing he might possibly claim it was second. Mr. Campfield said he believed the present apple situation would "clear up" and that the business had a future. He said that there seemed to be a cycle of 30 to 35 years in the apple business, with a period of wild planting, then over production and discouragement. He saw improvement in sight and one of the signs was that nine cooperative organizations this year had spent around half a million dollars advertising apples.

Visitors Attend 'Apple Session'

The apple was king at the weekly meeting of Kingston Kiwanis Thursday. In honor of the annual session of the New York State Horticultural Society being held here a program of a "farm nature" was carried out by President Ed Huben. There were several guests from among the visiting delegates to the Society meeting, including several 4-H Club leaders and the speaker of the session was W. J. Birdsall of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets at Albany.

Pratt Boice had charge of the program and introduced the speaker who told of the services which his department renders the fruit grower and farmer. He told of the inspection made, of marketing information sent out daily by mail and through radio programs and the numerous services which his department gave for the protection of both the producer and the consumer. Without this statewide marketing information he made it clear that there would be no orderly conduct of the marketing of produce and the result would be loss to the producer and also a disadvantage to the consumer.

As an appropriate part of the program the F. B. Matthews Company served Lily of the Valley, New York state apple juice, and the Kiwanians sampled Ulster grown apples donated by one of the county's large growers, J. S. Dooly.

Next week the Kiwanis will have a "safety-test" program. Among those in attendance besides Mr. Birdsall was J. Roe Stevenson of Cayuga, newly elected president of the State Horticultural Society, who was a guest of Pratt Boice. Also guests of Mr. Boice were Paul Thayer of Albany, John Merchant of Middletown, Robert D. Dyer of Hudson and Samuel Dorrance of Troy, all 4-H representatives.

Wesley Morgan of Rensselaer was a guest of Joe Deegan, Cyril C. Morgan of Bloomfield, N. J., was a guest of George Matthews, Theodore Oxholm of Eposus was a guest of Roger H. Loughran, Judge B. A. Culliton had as his guest Walter Donnamma of Kingston. S. W. Davenport, Jr., of Kinderhook was a guest of Pratt Boice as was L. R. Cole and Kenneth Cole of Cairo and DeWitt Rockefeller of Cairo.

Big Refrigerator Shipment Received Here by M. Reina

Last Monday afternoon, McGill's warehouse, off the East Chester street by-pass in the central part of the city, was the scene of much activity. M. Reina, local distributor of General Electric appliances, who uses the warehouse as a storage plant, had just received what is thought to be one of the largest single shipments of refrigerators ever to enter Kingston. There were 30 refrigerators in this particular shipment, and all are the new 1939 General Electric air-conditioned models.

In unloading the carload, six employees of Mr. Reina established some sort of a record when they completely emptied the car and stored the refrigerators in the warehouse in three hours. Doing this was no slight task in view of the fact that the boxes had to be taken from the freight-car, loaded on a truck and transported a distance of some 400 feet before they could be placed in the warehouse. In all, 27 trips with the truck were necessary because only three refrigerators could be handled at a time.

Later in the day, some of the new refrigerators were delivered to the uptown store of M. Reina, and some to the Central Hudson offices in Kingston, Saugerties and New Paltz, where they will be on display.

This carload of refrigerators constitute the first shipment of 1939 merchandise to M. Reina this year and it is expected that there will be many more such shipments because of the anticipated increase in G. E. refrigerator business volume in the coming year.

Appearing in a red woolen shirt, Gary pleaded guilty yesterday in federal court to operating an illicit whisky still in the western Pennsylvania mountains.

"If you promise to quit drinking, I believe the proper penalty would be probation," offered Judge F. G. Schuamaker.

"Never, sir," said Gary firmly. "Six months and $500 fine," snapped the judge.

Growers Consider McIntosh Apple

Answer to the question... in planting an apple orchard one is forced to guess at the future for a period of nearly half a century, during which the trees are likely to be in production. One of the best methods of judging the future was said to be past performances. Answering the question as to whether, with increase in supplies, the price of McIntosh had weakened relative to other varieties, he said:
